

Lost Ark Static Management System on Google sheet

Characters sheet

quick analysis part (first 14 rows)

You must not make any edits. The text details the number of raids you have completed, the remaining count, the value of your accomplishments in in-game currency, and the post-exchange currency. Input today's price (100k gold per current in EGP), and it will monitor your progress in a graph.

"Example from my recent team" the second part of the information tells you about the top 10 rewarding content currently available, and the required gear score to enter the raid.

for daily,una u insert checkboxes in them to give you daily tracker (this part reset every day at 1pm in Egypt timezone) to change that give access to app script in extensions then “Rest Daily&weekly”

// Create triggers for daily and weekly resets
function createTriggers() {
  // Daily trigger at 1 PM
  ScriptApp.newTrigger('dailyReset')
    .timeBased()
    .everyDays(1)
    .atHour(13) // 1 PM is 13 in 24-hour format
    .create();

and of course, this code is responsible for resetting weekly progress as well (your raids, and weekly missions) it reset every week on Wednesday at 1 pm

// Weekly trigger at 1 PM on Wednesdays
ScriptApp.newTrigger('weeklyReset')
  .timeBased()
  .everyWeeks(1)
  .onWeekDay(ScriptApp.WeekDay.WEDNESDAY)
  .atHour(13) // 1 PM is 13 in 24-hour format
  .create();

part 2:

Please remember the following instructions:

- Manually insert your raid by copying the raid name and using Ctrl+Shift+V to paste it.
- After pasting, you will see a counter showing how many times you have played this raid.
- If you're feeling lazy, I have created an auto-insert function in the custom menu, which provides you with the top 3 highest raid rewards for each character.
- The first member in the sheet is the most important. If there is a new raid and you want to insert it, you will have to insert it in the first member zone, and it will be applied to all members.

Part 3:

in the Raids part, you don't need to manually input any raid information as it will be automatically generated. Instead, you just need to insert checkboxes to indicate the number of gates. It's important to note that the maximum number of gates is 4, and this limit will not change for the specified period. To facilitate this, there are 4 empty columns allocated for each raid.

In the custom menu, you will find an option that automatically inserts checkboxes. If there is an existing checkbox, don't worry; it will change its status, meaning your progress will be safe and untouched.

Please keep in mind the following information:

Roster details provide information on the number of raids completed out of the total, income earned out of the total, and tracking for each roster.

For Roster Gold, you should input the current amount of gold you have saved to calculate how much you have across your four accounts and accumulate it into EGP currency.

this is for making a static plan

Choose the day of the week you want to play as a static and the time of the meeting. This drop-down list is dynamic; by choosing the raid you want to play, it will change the drop-down items underneath it, showing which characters can join the raid because each raid has gear score requirements to enter. For each raid, I have included an average time to finish. For example, Echidna NM is on the hard side, so it might take 2 hours (because it's a new raid). When you hit the checkbox, it will display the current time, showing whether you made it before or after the given time, so you know the performance of this party.
